"The information printed in the newspers of Mondoy morning, the 25th, and a Thesday morning, the 25th, and a Thesday morning, the 26th, and the des of the correspondence submitted by special message to-day seem to require on the Administration a fuller explansion of what dispatches have been revealed and of the exact date when they are received; for it seems to me evident at it was known on Sunday night that a sectific and satisfactory answer would be said, and Mr. Harrison owes it to the matry and Congress and himself to let it known whether he had this information lich the country had or was ignorant it.

New York, January 28.-It is worthy New York, January 28.—It is worthy of note that the dispatches to the Associated Press from its special correspondent at Santiago, Chile, the last few days have anticipated all other intelligence from that capital. Thus on Sunday night last the Associated Press dispaten gave the first conclusive statement that an ultimatum had been zent to Chile; on Saturday night the Associated Press dispatch gave the first intimation that Chile would promptly toply to Mr. Blaine's note, and on Mouday night the Associated Press correspondent cabled a correct synopsis of Chile's reply.

No other news association had this ner titl it was in print in Associated Pre-apers. The United States Governmi, self received its first intimation of it, mor of Chile's reply from the Associate rose dispatch. The opposition news as-ation simply appropriated it. The Asso-led Press is universally recognized as medium for reaching the America ublic, and when news of prime impor-

Senators who were seen after the reading of the papers had no special comment to make other than that they regarded the controversy as practically settled, and that they thought the answer of Chile had removed the irritation between the two Governments. They said that the answer was very straightforward and candid, and that there was nothing more that the United States could demand. It was regarded as a complete and unequivocal response. The belief in the Senate heretofore has not been that the probabilities of war were very great.

war were very great.

Several Democratic senators criticised the action of the President in sending his message to Congress before Chile's reply had been received, and one senator said that the whole affair was a fizzle and a

Senator Sherman, charlman of the con-ate Foreign Relations Committee, said this afternoon that no further action on the subject will be taken by the committee for the present, at least, if at all. He con-sidered the trouble as virtually settled. NEVER THOUGHT THERE WOULD BE WAR.

Senator Hoar, also a member of the committee, said that he never felt that there would be war, and that he did not think a great many persons thought so. The committee did not meet to-day, it being felt that there was no occasion for daily conferences, as had been the case since the receipt of the President's message.

Public mer who have been interviewed and who found their utterances out of date and inappropriate a few hours later, in the rapid changes of the situation, were not incheed to-day to discuss the subject at much length, but were content to express gratification at the latest develop-press gratification at the latest development.

In the House this feeling was more evident after Mr. Allen of Mississippi, who has a considerable reputation as a humorist, made a characteristic speech, in which he disclaimed possessing himself any of the impetuosity which had led other gentlemen to rush into print while the country was under the great strain to which it had been subjected. He declared, amid laughter, that he never would have been heard from but for the fact that the trouble was now over. He gave utterance to the private sentiment of many of his party colleagues by reading from and commenting on an interview with ex-Speaker Keifer, in which the latter said the President's message was issued "just in time."

"The translated copy did not come to the Executive manison until during the meeting of the Cabinet, who were waiting for it, and that must have been between 12 and 1 o'clock. The first information the President had of the receipt of the dispatch came from General John W. Foster, who called on the morning of the 26th between 10 and 11 o'clock about some other matter, and told the President that a dispatch had come from Mr. Egan, which was then being translated." THE MATTER OF ARBITRATION.

London, January 28.—The Times to-day publishes a dispatch from Santiago de Chile saying that, in reply to suggestions, Chile expressed her willingness to have either Spain or Brazil act as mediator in her differences with the United States, but that public opinion is in favor of submit-ting the question to the arbitration of the Supreme Court of the United States.

The correspondent says that the Chilean Government is receiving messages of sym-pathy from all parts of South America and the United States.

Is Harrison Disgraced?

London, January 28.—Several of the English papers to-day print an alleged dispatch from Washington to the Dalziel Agency, in which it is asserted that President Harrison yesterday informed the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations that the answer of Chile to the ultimatum sent her on the 21st instant was received before his message was sent to Congress, but that he was not aware of its contents, owing to the fact that it was not translated into English until after the message had been delivered to Congress. Easing its comments upon this assertion of the Dalziel agency, the St. James Gazette this afternoon publishes an article in which it says: "If the story is true President Harrison is disgraced and has made himself ridiculous. The story is not given as gossip, but as the report of the official proceedings of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. Such a paltry trick is inconceivable."

The girl then asked one of the lawyers where Freda was. She was told that the body was at Steinly & Hinton's.

"Oh, mama," she said, "If I could only see her. Please let me go to see her. If I could only lie down by her side I would be so happy."

When the permission was refused she broke into a torrent of tears—not for having killed Freda, but for the separation. The letters that she wrote to Freda are full of the most endearing terms, and go to show that the, girl eagerly looked forward to the time when she could make Freda her wife. Strange to say, from what can be learned, Freda herself seemed to be infatuated with Alice, and willingly assented to the proposed marriage. The time had been arranged, and the affair was to have been in the nature of an elopement.

THE REDEEMING FEATURE OF M'KINLETISM.

The resolution offered by Mr. Hale on the 18th instant directing the Secretary of State to furnish to the Senate copies of all agreements made with other countries relating to an interchange of trade and commerce under the tariff act of October 1, 1890, with all information received as to the practical effect of such agreements, was taken up and became the subject of a long debate, into which entered various subjects embraced in the McKinley tariff act, recuprocity claiming most of Mr. Hale's attention in his speech opening the debate.

Mr. Vance remarked that the drift of Hale's attention in his speech opening the debate.

Mr. Vance remarked that the drift of Mr. Hale's speech was to show the benefit of the remission of turiff duties. The whole tendency of the argument had been in the direction of the blessings of free and unrestricted trade. He thanked Heaven that there was hope for the country when the truth began to crop out through crevices of that kind. If it were proven (as he understood the Senator from Maine to argue) that the only thing which redeemed the McKinley bill and saved it from a flat and absolute failure was the single solutary free-trade element that was in it, there was hope in that, and he could say now, in the language of old Simeon, "Now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace" to his dinner since his ears have heard the justification of his opinion. [Laughter.]

Mr. Hale's resolution went over without action.

House of Representatives.

The debate on the report of the Committee on Rules was resumed as the first business of the day.

Mr. McMillin, of Tennessee, took the floor and made a speech in support of the proposed rules. He had been speaking but a few minutes when Mr. Pruden, one of the President's secretaries, was announced and presented the President's supplemental message upon the Chilean difficulty. The message was not immediately laid before the House, the Speaker withholding it in order to permit Mr. McMillin to conclude his remarks.

Mr. McMillin having concluded, the President's message was laid before the House and read by the Clerk. Its reading gave rise to some applause, and theu, at the suggestion of Mr. Blount, of Georgia, the accompanying documents were read.

The documents were listened to with the closest attention, and when, on motion of Mr. Blount, they, with the President's message was rounted to be nitted.

THE MISSAGE "JUST IN TIME."

Mr. Allen then referred to and ridiculed the interview with ex-Speaker Keifer, as published in the press this morning, bearing upon the President's Chilean message. He laid special stress upon Keifer's utterance that the President's Chilean message was "issued just in time." [Laughter.] "Just suppose the President had waited a little while longer. He might have put a stop to the drift of Republican sentiment alluded to by Mr. Keifer. The President had refused to travel on Sunday, but, according to the Washington Post, he had had a large number of printers working all last Sunday to get his message in "just in time." [Laughter.]

The amendment was rejected.

Washington, January 28.—Several bills are pending before congressional committees to give the Norfolk and Western Railway Company the right to enter the District of Columbia at Georgetown, and also the authority to erect a bridge across the Potomac river at or near that point. The business-men of Georgetown are very enthusiastic in their advocacy of the bill, as they think the proposed entry of the line will greatly benefit their interest.

Several influential men have been here for the past week presenting the claims of the company, and they seem to think that they will secure favorable action at the hands of Congress.

nted a happy scene vesterday afternoon 5:30 o'clock, when Mr. Mor an R. Mills, in ciated and Mrs. W. J. Peyton presided at the organ.

The bride was handsomely attired in an imported robe of tan, with hat and gloves to match, and carried Marechal Neil roses. Her maid of honor—Miss Lilly Brauer—was dressed in cream China silk with lace.

The following gentlemen acted as usheers: Mesers. L. L. Cheatwood, G. P. Shack-elford, A. W. Hechler, G. W. Kraker, F. C. Brauer, Jr., Lee Brauer—the latter two cousins of the bride.

AT THE ALTAR.

All of the ushers appeared in full dress, with boulonniers of lilies of the valley and smilar. After they had formed in front of the chancel, the groom entered from the right-hand side of the vestibule, accompanied by his best man, Mr. George J. Harper, of Baltimore. The bride, accompanied by her maid of honor, walked down the centre aisle and met the groom at the altar.

After the ceremony a reception was ten-

Mr. Cayce's Marriage at Henderson.
A special correspondent writing to the Disparon from Henderson, N. C., under date of the 27th, gives the following acaccount of a wedding to which brief reference has already been made:

The most brilliant event which has occurred in this city for many years was the marriage yesterday, at 11 o'clock at the Caurch of the Holy Innocents, of Miss Bessy Reveley Taylor to Mr. Alexander Boyd Cayce. The bride was a daughter of Colonel Erasmus Taylor, of Orange county, Va., who with his family has spent the past three winters here, and the groom the buyer of the American Tobacco Company at Warrenton and a son of Mr. Milton Cayce, of Richmond. Never dawned a fairer day for nuptials, and the wedding, which was an English one, was solemnized amid surroundings of sunshine, evergreens, and growing plants. The ceremony was very impressively performed by Rev. J. E. Ingle, rector of the church, assisted by Rev. Edward Beneditt, of Warrenton.

As the organ pealed forth the wedding march from Tannhauser, the ushers entered the church from the vestry-room and marching up the middle aisle met the bridesmaids at the entrance. First came the maid of honor, little Miss Berta Smith, of Richmond, niece of the bride, carrying the bridal bouquet of white violets and klies of the vailey. She was followed by the bride between her two sisters, Miss any Allen Taylor and Miss Sadie Patton Taylor. The other bridesmaids were Miss Lily Gordon Cavce, of Richmond, sister of the groom; Miss Annie Taliaferro, of Orange, Va.; Miss Laurs Mitchell, of Memphis, Tenn., and Miss May Ghent, of Baltimore. The ushers were Messrs. J. Mitchell and Harry B. Baker, of Richmond; Henry M. Cannon and Alvin Smith, of Richmond; J. H. Bridges and G. F. Hutcheson, of Richmond; J. Rose and Ed. Taylor, E. L. Chevasse and Jach Taylor. The groom, with his best man, Mr. J. Bailey Owen, met the bride at the altar.

HOW THE BRIDE WAS DRESSED.

The bride was given away by her father and was attired in an exquisite gown of white satin en train. Her veil was caught with a handsome diamond pin, the gift of the groom. The bridesmaides were gowns of white serge and crepe de chine, with white hats, shoes, and gloves and carried
